susan kamm 8:22 PM (23 minutes ago)

to me

Dear Sir or Madam,
A Letter Opposing 3-Mile Annexat...
1
I am writing to express my opposition to the practice of three-mile annexation and the extension of city authority beyond municipal boundaries.
As a resident living within the three-mile radius of a city but outside its official limits, I am concerned that annexation policies allow cities to exert control over individuals who are not city residents and who have no representation in city government. Subjecting nonresidents to city regulations, taxation, or future annexation without their consent undermines the principles of representative government and local self-determination.
Communities outside city limits have distinct needs, priorities, and identities that may differ significantly from those of the city. growth, those interests should be balanced against the rights of surrounding residents to maintain autonomy over their property and local governance. Three-mile annexation shifts that balance too far, granting cities power without accountability.
For these reasons, I respectfully urge reconsideration of policies that allow or encourage three-mile annexation and ask that greater weight be given to consent, fairness, and representation for those living outside city boundaries.
Respectfully,

Susan Kamm
Sent from my iPhone