1. The first step in the process is to identify the problem or issue that needs to be addressed. This involves gathering information and understanding the context of the problem.

2. Once the problem is identified, the next step is to define the objectives and goals of the project. This helps to clarify what needs to be achieved and provides a clear direction for the work.

3. The third step is to develop a plan or strategy to address the problem. This involves breaking down the problem into smaller, manageable tasks and determining the resources needed to complete them.

4. The fourth step is to implement the plan. This involves putting the strategy into action and monitoring progress to ensure that the objectives are being met.

5. The final step is to evaluate the results of the project. This involves assessing the effectiveness of the plan and identifying any areas for improvement or further action.

Chairman, Legislative Coordinating Council

RE: Interim study requests

Dear Chairman Burke:

The Senate Ways and Means Committee during 1993 session approved requests for interim studies of various subjects as follows:

There are eleven state entities identified as having jurisdiction of water related issues. The study should review the responsibilities of each of those agencies and how they interact or react to the response for decisions. The process must be efficient, accurate and provide results in a timely manner. It is necessary that confusion be eliminated from the system and methods implemented that will reduce duplication.

The request for a study of the continue need for a State Warehouse inspection and audit program is questionable. The Federal agency does license grain warehouse facilities. State licensure is optional and was enhanced during the part when there were many economic failures of those facilities. The Grain Inspection Department has subsidized these inspection and auditing activities. The Committee recognized the fact that an Interim Study of this agency was performed last year, but believes a narrower focus could be productive.

The SRS Subcommittee, that reviewed the MR/DD budgets and suggestions regarding the closing of an institution recommended that a Special Committee or an Interim Study be authorized to monitor and adopt a plan to guide the future of KNI, Winfield and Parsons. The following scope of subjects is suggested:

- a. A study of current client services in the MR?DD system, including those provided through state hospitals, private ICF-MR facilities, and community providers.

- i. This study could include a review of the characteristics of clients currently served in each of these settings, including the appropriateness of current service settings, and the ability of clients to be served in less restrictive, more integrated environments.
- b. The study should identify service and system changes which take place in the community services system to allow the successful placement of clients from state institutions and private ICF-MR facilities into community settings.
  - i. This study should include a review and analysis of the actual comparative cost of serving clients in community settings, including an evaluation of the costs of medical care, housing, educational expenses, staff training and quality assurance. The study should also include a review of the various funding sources used in community-care settings, including Social Security --SSI, HUD housing subsidies, and vocational rehabilitation funds.
- c. The study would analyze the demand on and need for state hospital, private ICF-MR and community services, including an evaluation of the existing community waiting list and the effect of the freeze on admissions to state institutions.
  - i. This analysis should include a review of the number of clients in state hospitals and private ICF-MR facilities who could be served in community settings, and a review of the need for state hospital services for certain clients now residing in the community.
  - ii. This analysis should include a review of gatekeeping options the state could use to decrease the ICF-MR populations, including, if necessary, possible statutory changes to allow the state to control admissions to private ICF-MRs.
  - iii. In evaluating the community waiting list, the Committee should review the level of services needed by clients on the waiting list, any current services needed by clients on the waiting list, any current services provided to such clients, and how soon clients need access to these services.

Page Three

- d. Study the impact of deinstitutionalization on local school districts and the special education system, including a review of options regarding education dollars "following the student."
- e. Review existing local and private support for MR/DD services, and make recommendations as to options to enhance the partnership between the state, counties and the private sector.

I trust these requests are descriptive enough for the LCC action, but if additional data is required, please advise.

Sincerely,

August Bagina Jr., P.E., Chairman
Senate Ways and Means Committee
