Testimony Supporting HB 2474

By Karl Peterjohn, Exec. Dir.

Kansas already has a high level of public school spending. We are a high state spending point when compared with our neighboring states. The most recent federal spending data on the 50 states confirms this information. Kansas already spends more than the national average despite having lower than average income.

Supporting HB 2474 might seem ironic since this bill would increase spending $63 million more. My response to this very valid point is: consider the alternatives. I have not seen any other alternative that does less additional fiscal damage to this state's economy and fiscal climate than HB 2474.

Enclosed with this testimony is the most recent statewide school spending data contained with the latest Statistical Abstract for the United States. There is also the statement of the USD 306 school superintendent, Robert Goodwin, concerning school finance in Kansas and how we compare. Superintendent Goodwin statement is remarkable since it contradicts the fiscal claims issued by the bulk of the government school spending lobby.

HB 2474 also contains some praiseworthy features:

- 1) It partially rolls some of the correlation weighting into the base. The base funding per pupil is increased by $244 per pupil next year. The Kansas school finance formula is excessively complicated and KTN supports reforms that would simplify the formula.
- 2) Simplifying the formula can also help provide more local control at the district level. Sadly, what is truly needed is more local control at the school and even at the family level.

If all of the state aid was funded out of a single fund on a FTE pupil basis from this single source, that total would easily exceed $6,000 per pupil in state aid per year last year. This would contradict the school spending advocates who routinely claim that the state is only spending $3,863 per pupil per year. When this figure is added to local and federal tax funds the average is rapidly growing and is budgeted to exceed $10,100 this year statewide.

3) This bill will address the points raised in the deeply flawed Kansas Supreme Court decision that was issued January 3, 2005.

HB 2474 is far from perfect. This bill should to be strengthened with these changes:

- 4) HB 2474 needs additional protection for taxpayers by requiring that all increases in LOB property tax levies be automatically referred to voters for their authorization at a binding tax referendum election. Simply raising the 25% maximum to 30% is a major flaw in this bill.
- 5) The 5% cost of living allowance adds complexity to the state's formula with very little gain for taxpayers, students, parents, or teachers.
- 6) HB 2474 should be strengthened with the school based budgeting provisions advocated by Sen. Bunten.
- 7) Past Legislative Post Audit reports indicate that there are problems getting existing tax funds into the classroom. The states school finance formula needs to restructure the incentives so more money gets to the classroom. HB 2474 does not appear to address these problems with incentives and only slightly touches upon this issue through the changes in correlation and base weighting.

If we can eliminate some of the financial abuses, such as the misappropriation of $1/2 million by USD 501, this can reassure taxpayers that there is some financial controls in place to prevent overseas crooks from stealing the taxpayers' cash.

- 8) All tax funds should be included in school budgets. Many school district budgets in Kansas exclude federal title tax funds. All tax funds should be included.
- 9) Non Kansas residents using Kansas public schools should either be charged a tuition or a have a reciprocity agreement between their state and Kansas to cover the educational costs. It is outrageous that Kansas taxpayers are expected to finance roughly $5 million in out-of-state student's school expenses.
- 10) School districts that are financing lawsuits against the constitutionality of the state's structure of school finance or the level of funding and equity of that funding should be penalized. I would recommend a $5 per pupil reduction in base state funding for every $1 per pupil spent by the school district for this type of litigation during the previous school year. If this is not a strong enough incentive to terminate this litigious behavior, than the $5 figure should be increased.

Let me close with a number of important issues that impact, and are impacted by, school finance in Kansas.

11) In January I read that a Kansas Association of School Boards lobbyist had told a legislative committee, perhaps this committee, that the declining population in rural Kansas would continue to lead to school consolidation. I found the segment about the declining population compelling since this confirms a problem that Kansas Taxpayers Network has identified and spoken out about for many years. Kansas is a high tax state when you adjust for the fact that Kansans have lower levels of income than the national average.

It is a fact that citizens of this country can and do vote with their feet in addition to voting at the ballot box. This legislative testimony indicated that there was a fair chance that Kansas could lose a congressional seat following the next census. If the big government policies of higher spending and taxes continue, I believe the odds of this occurring are now at least 50-50. Kansas needs to break out of its historical paradigm of throwing large amounts of tax funds at the school finance problem and hoping that something will stick.

12) Increased spending on public schools will not result in economic growth. Even if there was a solid correlation between educational funding for public schools and student achievement (the academic studies on this are mixed, at best) there is a major problem that school spending proponents totally ignore.

Human capital, in the form of education, is as mobile as the individual citizens who have earned and possess that education. If the costs of educating our young people in Kansas are excessive than the taxpaying sections of this state will be bearing an excessive burden. This excessive burden will hurt these individuals and businesses in numerous ways but in one particular way: lower wages will be offered to workers with fewer job opportunities. Kansas Taxpayers Network is concerned that we are already in this problematical position right now.

The net effect of this is the creation of former Kansans who grew up here, went to school here, often went to college here, and found their future somewhere else. Their education is now helping pay the taxes in states like Colorado, whose governor recently stated has a budget of $13 billion a year. You are now considering spending over $11 billion budget in the Kansas All Funds budget. Colorado is a rapidly growing state that was once much smaller in population than Kansas. The 2000 census numbers reported that Colorado's population was 1.6 million larger or roughly 60%. Colorado's state budget was less than 20% larger than Kansas! Similar disparities exist between our faster growing and more competitive neighbors like Colorado and Texas when compared with Kansas.

HB 2474 does not solve this problem or even seriously begins to address this challenge to Kansas' future. What HB 2474 does do is provide the best of the bills that have been introduced in the 2005 legislature to address the court's edict and tries to address government school finance in this state.

THE STATE OF SCHOOL FINANCE IN KANSAS AS COMPARED WITH THE REST OF THE NATION

Submitted by Robert D. Goodwin, Ph.D. Superintendent of Schools, Southeast of Saline, USD #306

The recent Kansas Supreme Court Ruling would seem to indicate there is a problem with funding of schools in Kansas. There are issues concerning the amount spent per student and how the money is allocated. Some have indicated as much as one billion dollars is needed to correct the problem. However, a review of how Kansas funds education relative to the rest of the nation indicates that Kansas is spending a substantial amount on the education of its children and the money is being spent in a relatively equitable way.

According to information contained on page 102 in the January 6, 2005 issue of "Education Week" Kansas ranks 19th in the US. in average pa pupil expenditure at $8,206. This is commendable because, according to the November 2004 periodical District Administrator, page 70, Kansas median household incomes only avenge $40,624 which is 25th in the nation. This information shows that Kansas is doing very well in funding education within its ability to do so.

The other issue that is of concern is how the money is divided up among schools and school districts. Since certain regions of Kansas have more wealth then others it can be assumed that controlling for the ratio of state aid to local effort can have a positive impact on the equity of distribution of state monies. State effort in Kansas ranks 8th in the nation at 62.4 percent (page 69, District Administrator, November 2004). This indicates that 62.4 percent of the monies for educating children in Kansas is generated through state revenues. Local effort for Kansas generates 28.7 percent. There are only 13 states in the Union that spend less than Kansas on local effort. Federal monies for education account for the rest of the expenditures for education and amount to 6.3%. If state money for education controls for district wealth then Kansas educational spending should be in good shape.

When we examine the wealth-neutral score that Kansas gets when compared to the rest of the nation the equity issue looks pretty good. This score shows the degree to which state and local revenues are related to the property wealth of a district. According to the information on page 100 of "Education Week," January 05, Kansas ranks tenth in the nation with an overall grade of "B" for wealth equity.

Kansas has also increased the ability of districts with less wealth from assessed valuation to increase the amount of money they can get for their students. Through a formula that rewards poorer districts, the state of Kansas increases their support of local districts supplemental general fund and their bonded indebtedness funds that gives them money which is not received by districts with higher assessed valuations.

School Finance Testimony

Karl Peterjohn Exec. Dir.

Kansas is a high spending point in our region! Despite misleading editorial and news articles coming from the Kansas news media, there is new federal data indicating that Kansas is a high spending state on public schools.

This is true for both absolute levels of spending and relative to our neighboring states. It is particularly poignant because Kansas has lower than average income to pay for this large expenditure.

Here's the per pupil government school spending data:

State	Avg. per pupil	Ranking (1st highest)
U.S. Avg.	$8,428	X
Kansas	$8,687	21
Colorado	$8,010	28
Missouri	$7,674	31
Nebraska	$7,671	32
Oklahoma	$6,577	44
Texas	$7,684	30
New York	$11,910	2

Source: 2004-05 Statistical Abstract for the U.S., chart 241, data is from the 2002-03 school year.

What is also interesting about this data is the fact that states that are at the very top of the expenditures per pupil list, like New York which ranked second in public school spending at $11,910 per pupil, are still being litigated over their school finance. New York's school finance litigation was mentioned extensively in Judge Bullock's Montoy school finance decision. Sadly, Kansas appears to be moving down a slippery legal slope into a realm of perpetual school finance litigation. This chart also indicates that expenditures in education do not appear to correlate with economic growth. That's why I included the data from fast growing Texas within this chart.

Another important point is the fact that Kansas spends substantially more than the national average per pupil according to this new data. This is despite repeated claims that spending on public schools in Kansas is supposedly not growing and that any growth is inadequate. Actually, a much better argument is that this state's growth is lagging below the rest of the country because we have a higher cost of working and living in this state due to the higher costs for this important part of state and local expenditures in Kansas.

This same source reported on the average income across the United States. Kansas lags well below the national average. This is crucially important in determining how much Kansans can afford to pay for government. Here is this regional comparison:

	Per Capita
State	Personal income Avg.	Ranking (1 st highest)
U.S. Avg.	$30,033	X
Kansas	$28,422	26
Colorado	$32,550	8
Missouri	$27,773	30
Nebraska	$29,203	21
Oklahoma	$25,308	39

Source: 2004-05 Statistical Abstract for the U.S., chart 653, data is from 2003 in constant 2000 dollars.

Kansans have a lower income on average than fast growing Colorado and Nebraska while enjoying a higher level of income than Missouri and Oklahoma. Fast growing Colorado's income rise is a relatively recent phenomenon. This same chart indicates that the average income in Colorado was the 18th highest in the U.S. in 1990. This is just prior to TABOR being enacted there in 1992. Now Colorado is 8th highest lagging only behind high income coastal states.

Kansas was 22^{nd} highest in 1990, only slightly behind Colorado. While their income levels have increased significantly in Colorado, Kansas income levels have dropped when compared with our neighbor to the west.

Are Kansans getting their money's worth? One of the arguments going on in the school finance debate is over the level of teachers' salaries. Are they too low? Is this the reason why Kansas public schools cost more than our neighboring states? The well known Augenblick and Myers report in May, 2002 said, "Although people suggested that it might be necessary to raise salary levels in order to attract and retain highly qualified personnel, A&M could not find evidence to support raising the average salary of all teachers," (P. ES-3). The school finance spending proponents have a split between those who believe that teachers are as a whole underpaid, and those who follow the Augenblick and Myer recommendations.

House Bill 2474

The Augenblick & Myers studies identified several potential changes to the way school finance is handled in Kansas. Kansas is a state of very disparate areas, both geographically and economically. One of the problems in crafting a "blanket" school finance formula is making sure that students are treated similarly no matter the socioeconomic status of their respective districts.

Augenblick & Myers suggested that a cost of living factor should be part of the school finance formula. A large disparity in the cost of living exists between some Kansas counties. Housing is the largest component of cost of living and therefore is used as the measure for this proposal.

This proposal will hold low cost of living areas harmless and recognizes that some high cost areas have the ability to fund their cost of living factor.

This bill allows districts with an average cost of housing that exceeds 125% of the statewide average and has an approved LOB of 25 % to qualify for self funded weighting.

This bill recognizes a higher cost of housing and allows those districts the means to offset the higher cost of living incurred by their teachers.

Re: Bill 2474

Kansans place a high premium on education and consider it a top priority for the state. That is how it should be, as the education a child receives today is directly tied to the economic development of the state tomorrow.

Recent studies and court decisions have shown that Kansas is doing a disservice to its future by not addressing deficiencies in the school funding formula. As the Legislature considers options for funding education, we urge you to be mindful of potential unintended effects that may increase the cost of education in the long term.

This committee is considering a proposal to take money out of the Children's Initiatives Fund, or CIF, and use it to fill the holes in school funding. We believe this plan is not a "key for success," but a step backward that would adversely affect thousands of children across the state.

The CIF is currently funding several worthwhile programs that address school readiness – putting pre-kindergarten-aged children in a position where they can excel once they reach the elementary school level. Numerous studies have proven that investing in kids early is the best way to reduce the cost of education in the long run, because there will be less need for remedial and special services. If money used to prepare children to succeed in school is shifted into another area, you are increasing the likelihood of more years of failing grades, lower expectations, and higher costs for education.

Kansas Action for Children strongly supports an increase in education funding that will allow the state to provide a suitable education for all, but that increase must not come at the expense of early care and education programs. One of the most cost-effective ways of closing the achievement gap in schools is by closing the preparation gap that too many students face. Through the CIF, the state is making powerful investments in the future potential of its children and its economic well-being – it would be a mistake to disinvest in that potential.

Honorable Stephen Morris President Kansas Senate State Capitol – Room 359-E Topeka, Kansas 66612

Dear Mr. President:

As you are aware, the Kansas State Board of Education is committed to student learning, as we know you are.

We do not believe that forced consolidation of schools when student learning is being achieved, is the best educational policy for the State of Kansas. As a general policy, the KSBE has always been in favor of local control regarding the issue of school district boundaries.

However, the Board has had reports about a potential coming shortage of Administrative staff to operate the districts and thus it would seem to be appropriate for the Legislature to pursue Administrative Reorganization of public schools in Kansas. The KSBE is well positioned to help design and implement an administrative reorganization plan commiserate with our commitment to student learning.

I thank you for your efforts, and please do not hesitate to contact me if I can be of assistance.

Sincerely,

Steve E. Abrams

Chairman, KSBE

SUBJECT:

School Finance

Attached is a computer printout (L0534) which provides the effects on school districts of the tentative decisions made to date on school finance. Our records indicate that there has been no changes made in transportation and ancillary facilities weighting and that the Committee has agreed to the following.

- Eliminate correlation weighting, lower low enrollment weighting, and raise the base state aid per pupil (BSAPP) to $4,107. This change in and of itself will result in no changes in expenditures.
- Expand the at-risk definition to include reduced priced lunches and expend approximately $18 million additional state aid.
- Reduce vocational education weighting from .50 to .15 and add the savings to the BSAPP.
- Increase bilingual education funding by approximately $11 million.
- Increase special education funding to 85 percent of excess cost.
- Equalize the capital outlay levy up to four mills using the bond and interest state aid ratios.
- Add an additional $110 to BSAPP
- Skills for Success tentatively approved which provides $20 million of Children's Initiatives funds primarily for reading and mathematics for grades K-3. This is not reflected in computer printout L0522.

Section 1. K.S.A. 2004 Supp. 72-6404.....

- (e) "Enrollment" means:
- (1) (A) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (1)(B), for districts scheduling the school days or school hours of the school term on a trimestral or quarterly basis, the number of pupils regularly enrolled in the district on September 20 plus the number of pupils regularly enrolled in the district on February 20 less the number of pupils regularly enrolled on February 20 who were counted in the enrollment of the district on September 20; and for districts not specified in this clause paragraph (1), the number of pupils regularly enrolled in the district on September 20;
- (B) a pupil who is a foreign exchange student shall not be counted unless such student is regularly enrolled in the district on September 20 and attending kindergarten or any of the grades one through 12 maintained by the district for at least one trimester or two quarters or the equivalent thereof:
- (2) if enrollment in a district in any school year has decreased from enrollment in the preceding school year, enrollment of the district in the current school year means whichever is the greater of (A) enrollment in the preceding school year minus enrollment in such school year of preschool-aged at-risk pupils, if any such pupils were enrolled, plus enrollment in the current school year of preschool-aged at-risk pupils, if any such pupils are enrolled, or (B) the sum of enrollment in the current school year of preschool-aged at-risk pupils, if any such pupils are enrolled and the average (mean) of the sum of (i) enrollment of the district in the current school year minus enrollment in such school year of preschool-aged at-risk pupils, if any such pupils are enrolled and (ii) enrollment in the preceding school year minus enrollment in such school year of preschool-aged at-risk pupils, if any such pupils were enrolled and (iii) enrollment in the school year next preceding the preceding school year minus enrollment in such school year of preschool-aged at-risk pupils, if any such pupils were enrolled; or
 - (3) the number of pupils as determined under K.S.A. 72-6447, and amendments thereto.

The basis of the bill directs individual districts to negotiate with sending districts to have funding follow the student. If agreement cannot be reached and a good faith effort has been shown, the Kansas district may ask the State Board of Education to allow the district funding but the State Board cannot exceed the state average.

Basically it gives us a statute to mirror neighbors so our districts will be more inclined to negotiate.

I'm sure you will hear from the past arguments that these people live, work, pay taxes in our communities. I accept that, HOWEVER, it cuts the same the other way. Kansans work in their states, own property, pay taxes. But out neighbor states feel no obligation to us and I want a level playing field.

I also want to point out, NOTHING in this bill closes schools as was implied yesterday.

Fiscal information: Currently 571 students x $9,480 (State Average) = $5,413,080

New Section II/B I will lead to wisdom of the committee, however the amount will probably be higher after the new finance plans are completed.

I'll stand for questions.

HOUSE SELECT COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL FINANCE MINORITY REPORT HB2474

We, the undersigned, object to House Bill 2474, which will result in increased inequity in the funding of Kansas schools by providing extra budget and spending authority to school districts in the wealthiest communities in the state while continuing to shortchange other districts. This bill provides inadequate state funding, especially for school districts that educate the largest numbers of economically disadvantaged students and students with special needs. We hereby provide our objections to the following provisions of House Bill 2474, which was passed by the House Select Committee on School Finance on February 23, 2005.

ANCILLARY WEIGHTING FOR DISTRICTS WITH ENROLLMENT GROWTH

- The proposal to continue the ancillary services weighting for extraordinary enrollment growth has no rational basis. Ancillary weighting was originally explained as authority to levy local taxes to pay costs associated with commencing operation of new school facilities. The present statute still ties this weighting to districts opening new facilities. The new facility weighting is being eliminated in HB2474, an admission that there is no rational basis for additional funding for new facilities, much less another overlay of additional weighting ancillary to new facility weighting.
- Ancillary weighting provides three suburban districts with $22,709,000 in additional funding over other districts in the state. The rational basis for the weighting and the amount of funding is approved by the BOTA, which is a body designed to regulate taxes, not educational costs.
- Ancillary weighting is provided to districts which are experiencing rapid growth.
 Growth in number of students is addressed by the foundation formula which provides additional budget per pupil for each additional student.
- Ancillary weighting is not allowed for any district which does not levy a full Local Option Budget. The LOB is for extras, not the ordinary costs of providing each child an equal opportunity for education. Therefore, it is not rational to require levying LOB authority in order to access the general costs of providing educational services.
- Ancillary weighting was created as a political compromise in order to provide additional funding to Johnson County schools and is designed to limit its use by other school districts. The lack of a rational basis is exemplified by the fact that this weighting is providing an additional $497 per student in Blue Valley schools, $558 per student in Olathe schools, and $225 per student in De Soto schools.

ANCILLARY WEIGHTING FOR DECLINING ENROLLMENT

- The proposal to create a new taxing authority and revenue source for districts with "extraordinary declining enrollment" does not have a rational basis. The proposal does not address any real costs associated with extraordinary declining enrollment that are not already addressed in present law. Kansas law already addresses declining enrollment, including situations when the decline continues over three years. The present law allows districts to maintain funding for the lost students for the time necessary for the district to make adjustments in staffing and other matters to address the smaller student body.
- It was clear from testimony and discussion in committee that this provision is intended to benefit Shawnee Mission school district and to try and obtain votes from that delegation for the House bill. The funding source is not available to smaller, rural districts that are experiencing the greatest effects from declining student enrollment. It is clearly more difficult for a small district to adjust to loss of students and funding than for a very large suburban district like Shawnee Mission, the second largest school district in the state. Testimony before the committee was that Shawnee Mission is averaging a loss of 400 students per year. This is a loss of 1.4% per year in students. The present provision for declining enrollment clearly provides time for Shawnee Mission to make adjustments in its budget and operations to this decline.
- Like the Ancillary weighting for three different Johnson County school districts with growing student populations, the proposed new ancillary weighting delegates to the Board of Tax Appeals the authority to define what evidence is required to support a claim for extra funding for declining enrollment and the authority to decide what amount of funding the district may add with local property taxes.
- This funding is not allowed for any district which does not levy a full Local Option Budget. This may also be intended to limit its use by districts outside Johnson County. This limitation does not have a rational basis. The LOB is for extras, not the ordinary costs of providing each child an equal opportunity for education. Therefore, it is not rational to require levying LOB authority in order to access funding for the general costs of educational services.
- There is no set limit on this ancillary weighting. There is no limits on what it can be used to fund and no requirement that it be used to fund the actual effects of declining enrollment. The provision appears to be unlimited in time as well as in scope and can be provided into perpetuity.

AT RISK WEIGHTING

 At risk weighting, as proposed, would add those students who are eligible for reduced price lunches to the definition of at risk student for the purpose of

- counting the number of weighted students. This change has a rational basis because a strong correlation between the number of low income students and the number of failing students has been clearly shown.
- However, it is irrational to just identify more students in school districts who are likely to need at risk services. This limits the change in at risk funding to merely counting more economically disadvantaged students. The Supreme Court upheld the district court finding that state school funding is inadequate and inequitable because the state is not providing suitable funding to address the special needs of economically disadvantaged and minority students. There has been strong evidence provided to the committee that the present weighting at 0.1 for at risk funding is too low to provide the needed at risk programs in school districts across the state. This is supported by the 2001 Augenblick & Meyers study and the recent survey by the State Board of Education requested by the Senate Education Committee. It is also supported by the fact that Kansas has a very low weighting in comparison to other states. The state is presently spending $50 million on all at risk students in the state while three wealthy suburban districts are spending $20 million provided by ancillary weighting. This is a clear example of the inequity in the present formula and its disparate impact on low income as compared with higher income students. At risk weighting, based upon cost studies conducted by this state and the weighting used in other states, should be at least 0.25.
- The committee selected the mere addition of reduced lunch students rather than raising the weighting factor because increasing the weighting factor to 0.25 costs $87 million and adding reduced lunch kids only costs $18 million. This amounts to selecting the least costly rather than the rational method of funding the educational interests of the state, at the expense of the most vulnerable students. The Supreme Court found that present funding is not suitable because it does not adequately address the special educational needs of low income and at risk students. This proposal clearly does not adequately respond to that finding.
- The proposal for funding grants for school districts to apply for funds for K-3 programs is not designed to address at risk students. It was stated in committee that the intent is to provide funding for school districts which do not qualify for at risk funds based upon numbers of low income and minority students. The funding comes from the Childrens Trust Fund, which is not intended to fund K-12 education. The $20 million which is taken from the Children's Trust Fund must be taken from community based programs that serve children already. This just amounts to a shift in funding already serving children at the local level.

BASE STATE AID PER PUPIL

The proposal to increase state base aid per pupil by $80 would provide an actual increase in state funding per pupil that is about half the annual inflation rate and, therefore, provides no actual increase in state foundation funding per pupil. The lower vocational weighting and application of $20 million thereby to base state aid per pupil and removing correlation weighting and reallocating the funds to base state aid per pupil is not an actual increase in state aid but taking existing state funding from one pocket and placing it in another. The transfers of these funds is an effort to provide the appearance of raising the base

LOCAL OPTION BUDGET

- The proposal is to increase LOB authority for all districts by 5% without any state funding for the additional 5% authority. The inequity of this provision is exemplified by the fact that in Galena, it will require a levy of 18.90 mills in an area with low incomes and high poverty, while in Shawnee Mission, one of the wealthiest areas in the state, it only requires a levy of 2.37 mills.
- In addition, another 5% authority without state match is provided for school districts with the highest residential property valuations in the state. These provisions create more inequity instead of less in the state funding formula. This "COLA" LOB is provided for additional local funding for teacher pay for 17 school districts with average residential values 125% of the statewide average. This provision is designed to provide additional funding for school districts in Johnson County and all 6 Johnson County school districts are among the 17 districts benefitted. In fact, Blue Valley, DeSoto, Olathe, and Shawnee Mission all qualify for 5% LOB because their average appraisal of residences is between $193,794 and $314,936. These districts can levy 1% of additional LOB at a mill levy of approximately 0.5 mills. Another district on the list of 17, Lansing, must levy 1.22 mills for each 1% of LOB. This inequitable provision isn't even equitable among the 17 districts identified as recipients.
- Both proposals are exactly the opposite of what is required to address the Supreme Court opinion. The Supreme Court affirmed the lower court's finding that funding for public schools is inadequate and inequitable. School districts with high property valuation per pupil may access this 10% increase in spending per pupil at a much lower cost for their taxpayers than school districts with lower valuations per pupil. The failure to equalize the first 5% for all school districts denies less wealthy school districts from the opportunity to access this additional funding. The second 5% in LOB authority is clearly targeted at the most wealthy school districts in the state and clearly intended for teacher salaries and benefits.
- These provisions support the claim by those of us who oppose these provisions that there is need for more state funding for schools than this bill provides. It allows for school districts who are able to obtain LOB authority to increase their spending on general education by 5% or 10% if the districts have high priced housing. The Supreme Court found that the fact that school districts are now utilizing the LOB for general costs of providing education is an indication that state funding is inadequate. To provide additional LOB authority for the very basic school costs associated with teaching staff goes directly against the Court's findings. The Legislature must provide suitable state funding for the educational interests of the state. If school districts are allowed to levy local taxes to supplement that funding, the items funded must be extras. Teachers are not extras.

VOCATIONAL WEIGHTING

- The proposal to decrease vocational weighting from 0.5 to 0.15 has no rational basis. If the Augenblick & Meyer study is the basis for this change, then it is also a rational basis for much larger increases in at risk and bilingual weighting and a much larger increase in base state aid per pupil.
- To place the vocational programs now being offered in jeopardy without a careful study of the costs of providing those programs goes against the goals in the proposal, one of which is to provide "training or preparation for advanced training in either academic or vocational skills to enable students to choose and pursue life work intelligently" and " development of sufficient levels of academic and vocational skills to enable students to compete favorably in academics and the job market."

BILINGUAL WEIGHTING

- The proposal is to increase bilingual weighting by $11 million and to adjust the weighting factor to provide that amount of additional state funding. The $11 million is about what school districts are spending this school year over what the state in funding for bilingual programs. Although there is a rational basis for adding $11 million, there is evidence before the Legislature that additional funding is needed.
- The joint interim committee on school finance last summer heard testimony from several school districts with large percentages of students who need bilingual services. Emporia provided testimony that the state funding for bilingual programs for their students is presently $864,398 less than they are actually spending and an additional $3,930,398 is needed to fund the staff, caseloads, programs, training and time needed to provide bilingual services.

IMPACT AID

- The proposal is to allow school districts that receive federal impact aid to retain 30% rather then 25% of that aid without reduction in state aid. This provision was added without prior discussion in the committee and without any public hearings. Impact Aid was designed to assist local school districts that have lost property tax revenue due to the presence of tax-exempt Federal property, or that have experienced increased expenditures due to the enrollment of federally connected children, including children living on Indian lands. To be eligible for assistance a local school district must educate at least 400 such children in average daily attendance, or the federally connected children must make up at least 3 % of the school district's total average daily attendance. A higher amount of impact aid is provided for "A" students, whose parents work and live on federal land, and for "B" students, whose parents work on federal land and live off federal land.
- In Kansas, the impact aid is received by Fort Leavenworth and Junction City - school districts and in smaller amounts by Derby, Manhattan and Leavenworth districts. Leavenworth school district provides high school services for the Fort Leavenworth school district.

- Until a few years ago, the impact aid received by districts was deducted 100% from the state aid those districts receive. In 2001, this was changed to allow disticts to keep 25% of the impact aid without decreasing state aid. In Leavenworth that does not amount to a huge amount of money but it is a big amount for Fort Leavenworth and Junction City.
- The additional 5% of impact aid provides additional funding amounting to several hundred thousand dollars to Fort Leavenworth and Junction City and a small amount to Derby, Manhattan and Leavenworth. In addition, the proposal allows districts to retain the full 100% of impact aid attributable to new students who will be counted in a second count created in legislation passed this session. This provides additional state funding to the affected districts. This provision is a method of benefitting a handful of districts rather than providing equitable funding for all students. It primarily benefits two districts, Fort Leavenworth and Junction City.
