

Regulation of Interstate Underground Gas Storage Fields

HR 6024 urges the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, the U.S. Department of Transportation and the Kansas Corporation Commission to adopt legislation or policies that would provide Kansas, and other states, administrative jurisdiction to assure the safe operation of wellbores associated with the underground storage of natural gas that is in interstate transportation. A recent federal court ruling precludes state authorities from regulating the safety of underground storage of gas in interstate transportation.
