To whom it may concern,

I have cared for Claire and Lola Hartley as their primary care physician for many years. I have watched them struggle with very high muscle tone, cerebral palsy, and multiple seizures each day. In a recent article in the Journal of Child Neurology in May 2018, there was improvement in these symptoms with low THC CBD oil. The current trend of recent studies has shown the potential to improve Lola's quality of life with low THC CBD oil. I would like to be able to give that treatment option to Lola's parents.

Sincerely,
Kimberly Allman
